the relationship between migration and development is becoming an important field of study yet the fundamentals analytical tools conceptual framework political stance are not being called into question or dialogue this volume provides a valuable alternative perspective to the current literature as the contributors explore the contradictory discourses about migration and the role these discourses play in perpetuating inequality and a global regime of militarized surveillance the assumptions surrounding the asymmetrical transfers of resources that accompany migration are deeply skewed and continue to reflect the interests of the most powerful states and the institutions that serve their interests those who seek to address the morass of development failure vitriolic attacks on immigrants or sanguine views about migrant agency are challenged by this volume to put aside their methodological nationalism and pursue alternative pathways out of the quagmire of poverty violence and fear that is enveloping the globe

this book examines current policy discussions around the migration development nexus and subjects them to rigorous conceptual and empirical criticism through a transnational lens placing the current re-discovery of migrants as agents of development nexus into theoretical and historical perspective focusing on the processes of accumulation concentration and centralisation of capital this book explains the transnationalisation of capital and its impact on latin america and brazil the first chapter addresses the logic of these processes from a marxian perspective the second chapter shows how this movement of capital expands into some latin american countries and how it subsequently retracts in the 1990s process of global centralisation the third chapter evaluates latin american strategies to attract capital by taking a subordinate position to capital's global movement the last two chapters focus on brazil's development strategy in the face of the alternating expansion and contraction of capital and point out the vulnerability of latin american countries when their development is subordinate to transnational capital first published in portuguese as subordinação consentida capital multinacional no processo de acumulação da américa latina e brasil by annablume editora fapesp in 2006 taking a fresh look at the impact of non state actors on world politics and on the foreign policies of states this book revives the debate on transnational relations which started in the 1970s this debate withered away in the face of state centered approaches but this book's new approach emphasizes the interaction of states and transnational actors arguing that domestic structures of the state as well as international institutions mediate the policy influence of transnational actors empirical chapters examine the european economic and monetary union us japanese transnational relations multinational corporations in east asia soviet and russian security policy democratization in eastern europe and ivory management in africa the book concludes with chapters discussing the theoretical implications of the findings in the empirical studies
